Joan, here are a couple of presentations that provide background/history and overview of results for the Pavillion investigation.

The first one is general and high-level, so not much detail about what we did/found. The first 5 slides of the second attached presentation provide a little more detail about our results. And the third item is a map showing detections of petroleum-related hydrocarbons in domestic wells. Let me know if this gives you what you need or if you need more detail on background/history.
